Sudden Heart Attack Fatal To Mokena Resident

Mr. James Keene, aged 61, passed away suddenly in his home in Mokena Wednesday evening at nine o'clock of a heart attack.

Mr. Keene and his sister Mrs. Lulu Stender a year ago bought the N. F. Heiman home where they have resided since. Mrs. Stender is a nurse for the Rock Island in Chicago which position she has held for the past 27 years. It was just a few days ago Mrs. Stender's employer dropped dead at her feet of a heart attack.

Mr. Keene had not been feeling well and Memorial Day Dr. E. J. McMahon was called. He did not go to work the next day even tho he felt improved and again Wednesday evening it was necessary to again call for the doctor. A few minutes after Dr. McMahon left the home, Mr. Keene passed away.

The body was removed to an undertaker's parlor in Chicago, their former home, where services will be conducted Saturday. Burial will be in Mt. Rose cemetery, Chicago.

Mr. Keene is survived by a son in Chicago, his wife in Ireland, and his sister.

$1,500,000 CAMPAIGN IS STARTED BY VFW FOR VETERAN REHABILITATION

The Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States have felt the need of doing something with the great problem which confronts our country as a whole and they as a group feel it their responsibility to care for the Service men returning home at the close of the war and also before the close.

It is estimated that nearly 32,500 men a month are being returned from overseas and this number will increase continually. Soon this number will be in the millions. These men are coming back from a life of military routine, battle etc. back to take up civilian life anew, to pick up broken threads, and to fit themselves into the pattern of normal peacetime America.

In order to answer this question, the government of the United States has officially named the Veterans of Foreign Wars as one of the four agencies to act as liaison between the returned veteran and his government, to provide the aid and counsel which will insure the proper benefits and services for the returning Vets.

The slogan of the VFW is "Give or Get, $10 Per Vote" and it is the first time in the 45 year history of the organization that they have appealed to the public to help carry on its work. Therefore the VFW in Mokena will give a bingo party in the school auditorium Saturday evening June 3 starting at 8:30. It is hoped that the public will back them up in this most worthy cause and turn out in full force and at the same time have a good time. The Auxiliary will sell refreshments.

Will County Tax Collectors Out of A Job This Year

This year tax collectors in Will County will not have a chance to receive any commissions for collecting taxes according to a ruling of legal experts as given to County Treasurer Ivan Rhodes the past week. The tax books of the County were held up on account of the 100 per cent assessed valuation of Cook County which had met with protest from the railroads but the court sustained the Cook County Assessor and since the final legal arguments have been settled, work on extending the tax is now under way.

No collections will be made until the first of next month. All personal and 1st and 2nd installments of real estate taxes must be paid at the Court House in Joliet.

The penalty date has been extended from July 1 to August 1.

Last year County Treasurer Rhodes paid out $45,000 in commissions to the tax collectors in Will County. All of this will this year go into the County Treasury's General Fund. As the result of this situation, virtually all the commissioners in Will County are virtually out of a job for this year. What will be done next year remains to be seen. In Cook County which is under a different legal set up, the tax books have been also late in delivery to the tax collectors but they will start their collections next week. The deadline has been set for June 27.

Mokena Scholars To Be Given Check-up June 9

A new State Health and Physical Education law, which has been designed to improve the health and physical fitness of the youth of Illinois, was passed at the last session of the State Legislature.

Becoming effective July 1, 1944, this new law provides that all pupils in the public schools shall be required to have physical examinations before they enter the first grade and every four years thereafter. These examinations must be made by physicians and dentists licensed to practice in Illinois. A record of each examination is to be kept by the school authorities. Any child who goes to his family physician for physical examination should get a report of such examination so that it may be entered in the school health record.

The law further provides that every child enrolled in the public schools shall have a daily period of physical education equal in length to the regular periods of the school day. Where possible there is to be a total of 200 minutes per week for physical education to be distributed over a period of three or four days. This time must be exclusive of recess and lunch periods.

Special activities in physical education must be provided for pupils who are found by examination to be unable to take the regular courses provided for normal children.

In order to meet the requirements of this new law, the members of the Mokena School Board have already made arrangements for the physical examinations of all school children who will begin school this fall, as well as those entering the fifth and ninth grades. These examinations will be given by Dr. E. J. McMahon and Dr. B. A. Duffy, from the Will County Health Dept., at the Mokena School gymnasium, Friday afternoon, June 9 at one o'clock. ## Washington, D. C.

PRESIDENT'S HEALTH

When congressional leaders called at the White House for the first legislative conference following the President's return from South Carolina, he looked fit as a fiddle. However, Senate Majority Leader Alben Barkley popped the question that has had the capital worried because of those wild rumors about the Commander-in-Chief's health.

"How do you feel?" asked the Kentuckian.

"Great," replied Roosevelt. He added that he had got in 12 hours of sleep a night and plenty of sunshine.

He was brown as a berry and buoyant as ever. However, congressional leaders noted that his face was a little thinner. Admiral Ross T. McIntire, the President's physician, accepts responsibility for this. Roosevelt has knocked off 10 pounds under McIntire's orders. He is still five pounds overweight according to his physician's standards, but McIntire figures that this can be corrected by proper dieting.

NAZI CHANNEL DEFENSES

Of all the variegated defenses Hitler has conceived to block the Second Front—from rocket-guns to flame on the Channel—the one which the Allies are worried most about is the plain, relatively old-fashioned machine-gun nest.

The Nazis have developed a new type of machine-gun nest, tried it out at Cassino, and it was one reason for our failure to advance.

This pillbox is of very heavy concrete, quite small, extends only a foot or so above the ground and is extremely difficult to see from the air. The pillbox usually houses two machine guns, hitched together so that one man can fire both.

One Nazi is in each pillbox so that if he is hit only one man is lost. But it takes almost a direct bomb hit to knock him out, so air pounding of them from overhead is not too effective. These pillboxes, buried in the mountains at Cassino, were terrifically effective, and more of them are reported lying in wait behind the shore along the coast of western Europe.

DISCHARGE BUTTONS

With more than a million men now honorably discharged from the army for wounds, health or age, the question of honorable discharge buttons becomes more and more important.

It took the army some time to design a discharge button, but now that it is designed, men and officers have a hard time getting it—unbroken. The buttons are made of plastic and when mailed to veterans, usually arrive in broken pieces.

One discharged air force captain got his discharge button all right in an envelope from Maj. Jesse C. Hicks, assistant quartermaster, Hill Field, Ogden, Utah. But there was no packing around it and it was in several pieces. When he wrote back for a new button, Major Hicks replied:

"There are no provisions for replacing broken buttons. Therefore, we are unable to comply with your request."

Note—Some of the boys think that with all the gold we have buried at Fort Knox, we could spare some for those discharged.

STATE DEPARTMENT HARANGUE

Dignified, delightful British Ambassador Lord Halifax called on Undersecretary of State Stettinius some time ago on a secret matter. While they were closeted together, Assistant Secretary of State Adolf Berle, diminutive and precocious, joined them.

Soon, high-pitched scolding voices came from Stettinius' office. Callers in his anteroom could not help overhearing the harangue as it reverberated even through the heavy mahogany doors of the state department.

Finally, Lord Halifax was ushered out. Later Stettinius came out, followed by Berle, who looked a bit agitated.

"Was I too tough with him?" asked Berle.

"No," said Stettinius, "you were just right."

"I felt," said Berle, with the air of a parent who has just delivered a good spanking, "that it simply had to be done."

What it was all about was not divulged, but Berle has been carrying on long discussions and arguments with the British regarding the future air routes of the world.

JEEP INVESTIGATION

Government bureaucrats were taken for a sleigh ride behind closed doors when they attempted to justify budget requests for "investigating" jeeps, during hearings on the supplemental national defense bill.

Engineering experts of the department of agriculture sprang the jeep scheme, claiming that they needed $15,000 to determine the value of the jeep for farm work "as a substitute for tractor power." It was noted that the current tractor shortage might get worse after the war.

You Pays Your Money and You Takes Your Choice

Ever hear of the Anzio Turf club? This club has been established only a mile behind the firing lines, at Anzio, Italy, for the amusement of British and U. S. soldiers. Wooden horses are used, which are moved according to numbers shown by throws of dice. Betting is brisk. In picture at left the entries in the "spring handicap" are chalked on the blackboard. At right, the barrier is sprung and they are off.

Lumber Jacks Do Their Bit in Biggest Log Roll

Jean Mullins, 15, lives in one of the many logging camps near Allagash, Maine, which recently contributed a total of 10,000,000 feet of lumber to the largest drive in the East since 1900. The drive was aimed to tie in with the European invasion, since every foot of this wood will go to the war effort. Jean is shown at left rolling a log with her peavey from the pile into the St. John river. Right: Here "Jacks" with their pike poles and peaveys clamber over the floating logs, separating and guiding them through the boom.

'Blockbuster's' Blind Inventor Visits U. S.

Air Commander Patrick Huskinson, 47-year-old blind hero of the RAF, who invented the most lethal weapon of World War II, the 12,000-pound blockbuster, has been in Washington participating in Allied discussions on armament design and development. He was robbed of his sight by the German blitz of 1941. Photo shows Commander Huskinson and his wife during a press conference.

PAUL IN EPHEBUS

LESSON TEXT—Acts 19:8-10; Ephesians 2:4-10; 3:14-19.

GOLDEN TEXT—We are his workmanship, created in Christ Jesus for good works, which God afore prepared that we should walk in them.—Ephesians 2:10.

Not peace—but a sword! With such graphic words Jesus indicated that His coming into the world would set men apart, either for or against Him (see Matt. 10:34-42). The gospel is the good news of redemption for all mankind, but the attitude of men toward the gospel divides them sharply, into the saved and the lost. Which are you?

Our lesson, telling of Paul's ministry at Ephesus and giving part of his letter to the Ephesians, shows that the gospel does divide, but that it also gives quickening grace and strength for Christian living.

I. Dividing (Acts 19:8-10).

Paul had a long ministry at Ephesus and a very successful one, but at the same time it was a stormy, trying experience. After all, do not those elements often go together?

Paul began in the synagogue. That was the proper way, and his custom. He ran into opposition, and after three months he had to seek another place to meet the people. But notice, he did not give up and leave town.

The teaching of any truth results in division, and especially is that true of the gospel. It was found before long (vv. 23-41) that winning people to Christ interfered with the heathen business interests, and then things began to stir.

One wonders why modern business set for the destruction of men's souls by rotten plays, movies, books, amusements, and by the saloon is so content to let the church alone. Is it because our testimony does not harm their business? If so, we are certainly not walking in the footsteps of Paul or of Christ.

Christ is a divider of men. Yes, but those who stand on the right side of that divide also receive

II. Quickening (Eph. 2:4-10).

Dead men, spiritually, come to life when they meet Christ and believe on Him. We were all dead in trespasses and sins, entirely unable to help ourselves, when God in mercy and grace quickened us.

He did this for us, but also for His own glory. That really is the most adequate explanation of grace. It was and is for His glory, a showing forth (v. 7) of the exceeding riches of His grace, through all the ages to come.

Being saved, then, is not (as some describe it) a foolish thing of little import, that takes place in some mission or little crossroads Sunday school. It does happen there, thank God for that, but it reaches clear up to the highest heavens, and on into all eternity. This business of bringing men and women, boys and girls to Christ is the greatest of all occupations. Let's be busy about it!

Be sure to note in verses 8-10 that it is all of grace. No works can enter into salvation. We are "his workmanship," not the result of a cooperative enterprise or creation.

But at the same time do not fail to stress that we are created "unto good works" (v. 10). The professed Christian who talks about being saved by grace, but who does not live it out in the good works which God has ordained as the proper expression of salvation by grace, should not be surprised if the testimony of his lips is not believed.

If we are quickened to newness of life in Christ, we ought to bring forth fruit. That is not possible in our own puny strength. But wait, the gospel which divides and quickens is also—

III. Strengthening (Eph. 3:14-19).

Paul prayed for the Ephesians, but somehow one feels that he prayed for the Christians of all time, for every member of "the whole family in heaven and earth" (v. 15) who bear the name of Christ. The writer is rejoicing today that he belongs to that family, but he wonders how it is with you who read these lines. Do you belong?

Paul prayed in the Spirit, that is evident as one reads these sublime words. It is a comforting and encouraging thought, too, for Paul here asks for a Christian experience for his readers, which seems quite impossible of attainment, except for one thing. It is the power of God which is to bring it about. Prayer in the Spirit is prayer that God answers, always and fully.

So we read with confidence these magnificent, enriching petitions, and we say: "O God, make me that kind of a Christian, a real Christian."

Observe that there is to be a strengthening of the inward man by the Holy Spirit. This is not something "put on" or acquired. It is God's gift.

Note also that it has a normal development, a growth in the knowledge of Christ because of an ability to "comprehend" (v. 18). Is not that our great need? We are unspeakably rich in Christ, but we do not seem to know enough to take out our inheritance.

THE STORY THUS FAR: Lieut. Col. Frank Kurtz, pilot of a Flying Fortress, tells of that fatal day when the Japs struck in the Philippines. Eight of his men were killed while fleeing for shelter, and Old 99, with many other Forts, was demolished on the ground. After escaping to Australia, what is left of the squadron flies to Java, where they go on many missions over the Philippines and the Java sea. The Japs learn the weakness of the E model Fortress, but the boys stick a .50-caliber gun in the navigator's compartment. Kurtz senses he is being watched in Java and one night awakens at the glare of a flashlight. The hand that held it also held a dagger. The would-be assassin gets away.

CHAPTER XVII

"We dreamed and prayed for this. And as a matter of fact the Navy did make an attempt. An aircraft tender was loaded with P-40's and started out from Australia. But what happened was just what was feared. Those P-40's were in crates stacked high on her decks, so she had to come clear in—through skies the Jap bombers ruled. She went down with her entire crew and those crated P-40's forty miles off the southwest coast of Java—but I'm sure the Navy was doing the best it could for us with what they had.

"Of course it gave our morale a kick in the belly. Late the next afternoon young Jack Dale (he'd won his spurs in the Philippines with the 17th Pursuit) came in from Goro on a personal mission from Major Bud Sprague. When he'd finished it he stayed a few minutes.

"The next night a Navy man who had just got in from our little fleet told me what had happened to the Marblehead and the Houston, those two beautiful cruisers which had been the nucleus of our Asiatic Fleet—helping the Dutch and Australians defend Java. With the rest of the fleet they'd been out in the Java-Sea. When they sighted a Jap recon plane overhead about noon, they knew they were in for trouble. They had no carrier, of course, which could send a fighter up to shoot it down. He said the Jap bombers presently came over them from their bases in Borneo and the Celebes (our bases they had captured) in three waves, spaced about half an hour apart. By skillful maneuvering they dodged the bombs of the first two waves. But the third, which crippled them, caught them just at sundown, and chewed their superstructures into steel spaghetti.

"In the darkness, they were able to crawl away out of range, and the Marblehead eventually got back to the States."

"But troubles of our own were looming ahead. The boys in Navy Patrol Wing 10 came in with the report that their planes on reconnaissance had sighted a force of six Jap transports and five warships headed toward Bali Strait, which divides Java from Bali. They were after the Den Passar airdrome on Bali—our last stepping-stone—having already occupied the airfield at Timor. This was, as maybe you now begin to see, a war of airdromes—Clark, Del Monte, Kendari, Samarinda, Kupang, all of them lost pearls in the United Nations' defenses, and now Den Passar. Next it could only be Malang, KNILM, Goro, and Madiun—all we had left on the strand. Seldom in this war did the Japs make a brutal assault; always it was the skillful surgeon's technique— isolate and occupy the airdromes and then you have the country. It was a game we knew well too, but you've got to buy chips before they will deal you a hand, and we didn't have the equipment.

"All I can say is the Dutch and Americans were ready to defend Bali with what we had. Our little surface navies moved in that night to clip them a glancing blow on the run, as they'd done at Macassar Strait, and our submariners did a grand job in the moonlight. The Colonel sent his Fortresses out and down to 5,000, to paste them from the air. We left two transports burning in the moonlight, and a crippled cruiser.

"Next morning it was up to the Air Force alone, because the Navy was too tiny to venture out by day. The Forts went over, of course—in fact everything we had, to smash at those Jap transports as they poured thirty thousand troops onto the beach at Bali. The P-40's were led by Bud Sprague himself. That morning he got his commission as a lieutenant colonel. He paused just before the take-off to scrawl his signature on his papers, but he didn't take time to pretty himself up in his new silver leaves; I guess he was satisfied to die in his old gold ones. Because what they desperately needed was dive bombers, and about all they had was P-40's—a fighter plane which was never built as a stable platform to launch an egg from. But all right, there the job was to do, and so Bud climbed into the cockpit.

"How many passes at the target are we going to make?" someone asked.

"Depends on how many wild hairs I'm sprouting when we get over her," says Bud with a grin, and they were off.

"He led them cold pigeon into that Jap barrage over the Bali beach—Hell!—back here, the people don't know that boy ever did a thing out there—and the other boys saw him go down in on his run—and never come up again. Yet his boys—what are left of them—still like to hope maybe he succeeded in landing on that Bali beach, which looks so nice in the travel folders, and will turn up grinning some day, telling them what a social success he was with the natives.

"But it was pitiful. We lost almost all our dive bombers there, and about half our P-40 fighters. Of course Bud and his gang made the Japs pay ten to one for taking that airfield—but the Japs had it to pay.

"With the Japs holding that Bali field, they could send bombers and fighters into every corner of Java, and we knew it was almost over. But anyway the Forts could now bomb our own field the Japs had taken from us—very convenient, because we knew exactly where everything was.

"When I got back late to the hotel there was that beautiful Dutch girl, the one with the black hair and the pale face which was so wistfully sad in repose. Only there were no sudden little smiles lighting it up now. She was at the table where she and John Robertson usually sat, alone. When she saw me she jumped up and came running across the room. Had I seen John? she wanted to know, in her pretty broken English.

"Out in the lobby they had told me John was missing. He'd been out on reconnaissance patrol in that lumbering slow old Navy flying boat, and there had been two messages from him: 'Many Zeros sighted,' and then about a minute later a final one: 'Zeros closing in.' That left only three of the ones I knew in gallant Patrol Wing 10, Commander Peterson, Bill Hardy, and Duke Campbell. None of them had been able to tell her, and when I looked at her face I found I couldn't either. Because it was the face of someone frozen with fear in a nightmare—so frozen you knew she daren't move to accept the truth if you told her, so I too was afraid.

"In all the evenings that were left (there were not to be many) I avoided that lobby, because it was haunted by a ghost—a pretty, pale, fear-frozen face that came running up to you and asked, with hope forced into a frightened smile, if you had seen John. To me the most frightening ghost of all—the ghost of a dead love which will not die.

"But there's something else that should be told, only I must go back in the story a little. The Army had sent a high ground officer to Surabaya on a special mission of great importance, and with about a million dollars deposited to his credit in the Javische Bank. With this he was to buy and equip with supplies three blockade runners which would carry to Corregidor ammunition, medical supplies, and food for those poor devils on Bataan who were still fighting on. Two of the ships had already left. A third was almost ready to go.

"This officer left Java the twenty-sixth of February. The day after he left, his assistant, a young second lieutenant, called me up in considerable anxiety. His chief, he explained, had paid him the compliment of leaving him in Surabaya in entire charge of completing the arrangements.

"Nothing remained to be done except the most important thing of all: the officer before leaving had been unable to find a radio operator for this last ship. Without one they could not start, because unless they gave a prearranged radio signal when they approached Corregidor, the Rock's guns would blow them to pieces. Could the Air Force possibly let them have a radio operator? Since the mission was a dangerous one, the assistant said he would pay a man who volunteered a bonus out of the money his chief had left in the bank.

"Now asking our Colonel for a radio operator was like asking him for his right arm. But Java was caving in, the situation was tense. Our Colonel hesitated, and then said that while he couldn't order anyone on so dangerous a mission, he thought, even after we explained clearly what it was, we could get a volunteer.

"And we did. We told the men the mission was most dangerous but of the greatest possible service to our country. And out of the line stepped a clean-cut, alert-looking kid called Sergeant Warrenfeltz. Only after this did I tell him of the five-thousand-dollar bonus. We let Warrenfeltz go down and look over the ship, loaded with surgical equipment, food, drugs, and three hundred thousand rounds of .30-caliber ammunition, so that she was practically a floating bomb. He talked to the captain (a Swede) and looked over the Negro and Chinese crew. There were two—one for topside dressed like Javanese natives so the Japs might mistake her for a fishing trawler. Then Warrenfeltz came to me with written orders from the bomber command and I told him the ports of call. They were to slip out at night, down the north coast of Java, through Lombok Strait, then along the Netherlands East Indies, then cut up east of the Celebes, running the Jap blockade into the Philippines till they came to Manila Bay entrance, where they would be challenged by the Rock. And he was to answer on the radio with the proper signal.

"Then he asked what were the other ports of call. So I told him (it makes me creep to repeat it) they were then to run the blockade through the Jap-mandated islands past Guam (now held by the Japs) to Honolulu.

"What else?" asked Warrenfeltz, grinning. He was game for anything. And I told him his third and last port of call would be New York. And then what? he wanted to know. I told him if he got that far, he was to have himself some fun, and I was sitting down now to write him out an order for thirty days' leave.

"He knew what he was getting into. We'd been flying over those waters for months; he knew just how thick the Jap surface ships were, and also that they had hardly a fifty per cent chance of escaping being blown up by a Jap mine just outside the breakwater. Why did he do it? To help those poor devils in the infantry, dying on Bataan. He'd seen the cargo. And then the money—he told me exactly what to do with that, and the message I must send, but we'll come to it later. Of course it was all pretty irregular, paying a man for heroism. Maybe when peace comes, somebody in a swivel chair in Washington will start writing us letters asking us why we did it, and I don't know what we'll say. And then it all ended happily for us, because the money Warrenfeltz was supposed to receive for trying to do what he did was never paid. But that comes later.

"Meanwhile we had other things to worry about. The Japs had put a little landing force ashore on a tiny island sixty miles north of Surabaya, and taken over its radio station.

"They hadn't told us yet," said the Bombardier, "but we smelled it. Rumors were running all over the place that we might evacuate any time now. Madiun, where I was based, was being bombed every day now—we'd go out on a mission and always come back to find craters in our runways. When we'd land, immediately there'd be another alarm and we'd have to hop off the field without servicing the planes or loading more bombs.

"Also, instead of going out to targets in formations, we now were going singly. As soon as we'd get one ship on the ground long enough to get it gassed and bombed up, we'd take off by our little lone one, dodging Zeros to pick just any target from the countless transports that were swarming off Java. In the last week I got a light cruiser and a transport—blew the end off the transport.

"Mostly we were flying in a mental fog. Rumors! Every day they'd say no, we weren't going to evacuate, because more reinforcements were going to land on the field any day now—even our own maintenance crews were about to land by boat. Then we'd hear their boat had been sunk (it really went on past us to India) and that we were pulling out. Nothing was sure, except the fact that all those Jap ships moving toward Java weren't pleasure yachts, and that we didn't have any reception committee to meet them. On what turned out to be my last day I got my plane loaded with bombs and took off, headed for a huge convoy we'd heard was coming down toward us from Borneo. We met it halfway—the plane ahead of us was already pasting it when we arrived. We came in at 28,000 watching this first ship plunking direct hits on two parallel strings of transports—seventeen in each string, thirty-four in all, with fifteen or twenty naval craft circling them.

SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER

After the war American synthetic plants should produce enough to meet our military requirements, perhaps 200,000 tons or more a year, and as much additional as can be justified through the free play of economic forces to meet then current civilian needs. This is the recommendation of John L. Collyer, president of The B. F. Goodrich Co.

At the beginning of the year our stockpile of natural rubber was less than one quarter of what it was at the time of Pearl Harbor. Unless plantations are recaptured from the Japs and immediately put into operation our imports of crude are not expected to exceed 80,000 tons in 1944.

The following poem was sent by Staff Sgt. Harold Berg from Italy:

Air Man
Over the target
The bombs go away,
"An easy mission"
I start to say.
Then comes the flak
It's all around
I suddenly wish
I were on the ground.
A burst on the right,
Four just ahead,
Now some on the left.
I should have stayed in bed.
I look at my pilot,
He says, "Howdy,
If they're not careful,
They will kill somebody."
We're soon out of range,
I take the toll,
All's okay,
Only one flak hole.
On the way home,
I start to relax,
Dreaming I'm a civilian
Paying income tax.

His recruit training completed, the seaman will spend a period of leave at home.

Lt. Vinson W. Kreimier, grandson of Wm. C. Junker of Orland Park, recently sent two paper pieces of Italian money to his cousin Miss Joyce Beagley. One piece is real Italian money and the other is Allied Military Government money which the Army puts in use. ## CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Ancient and Modern Necromancy, Alias Mesmerism and Hypnotism, Denounced" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, May 28.

The Golden Text was, "I would have you wise unto that which is good, and simple concerning evil. And the God of peace shall bruise Satan under your feet shortly" (Rom. 16: 19, 20).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "When thou art come into the land which the Lord thy God giveth thee, thou shalt not learn to do after the abominations of those nations. There shall not be found among you anyone that maketh his son or his daughter to pass through the fire, or that useth divination, or an observer of times, or an enchanter, or a witch. . . . For all that do these things are an abomination unto the Lord" (Deu. 18: 9, 10, 12).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "So-called spirits are but corporeal communicators. . . . A sinning, earthly mortal is not the reality of Life nor the medium through which truth passes to earth. . . . Not personal intercommunication but divine law is the communicator of truth, health, and harmony to earth and humanity. . . . The belief that one man, as spirit, can control another man, as matter, upsets both the individuality and the Science of man, for man is image. God controls man, and God is the only Spirit" (pp. 72, 73).

Thursday, April 20, 1944
Dear Mr. Sennler:

Things are pretty dull over here right at present so I thought I'd write and tell you that I sure am happy to see the News-Bulletin arrive at mail call. It makes a difference to a fellow over here to know what's going on back home.

That reminds me that the other day was my birthday and right on time arrived a birthday card from the New Lenox United Service club. If you could I'd appreciate your letting them know I'd received it and to thank them for their thoughtfulness. While I think of it I've had a change of address. I call it to your attention so that the paper won't go astray.

Once again for the paper I remain,

Sincerely yours,
Pfc. Orin F. Hoit.

WARTIME IDEAS FOR DAIRYMEN

BUILD THIS ELECTRIC MILK STIRRER

for faster, better cooling

In peace or wartime, don't gamble on milk protection. Chances of milk rejection must be cut to a minimum if all the milk produced is to be marketed. One of the easiest ways to keep bacteria count down—to do a quicker, more thorough job of cooling—is to use an automatic milk stirrer like this laboratory and field tested homemade model. Spend a few hours constructing this one from odds and ends lying around your place and you will have a profitable time, work, and milk-saver.

His patriotism is written in BLOOD.

Yours is written on every Bond you buy in the 5TH WAR LOAN!

THE stepping stones to victory are red with blood of American heroes. Tarawa . . . Salerno . . . Cassino. Their patriotism is written in blood.

Your patriotism is written on every Bond you buy in this vital 5th War Loan. Your name on a War Bond means you're behind our invasion troops.

Help hasten the day of Victory by investing in extra War Bonds now. Invest in more than you've ever purchased before. Invest $100, $200, $300, $400. Those who can, must invest thousands of dollars.

For this is the biggest job we've ever had to do. We can't fail our fighting men as they plunge into the biggest and bloodiest struggle of all.

WELCOME THE VICTORY VOLUNTEERS when they call to tell you about War Bonds

ORLAND PARK

by Mrs. S. S. Knox

Rev. and Mrs. H. E. Rompel, Mrs. Geo. Gee Jr., Mrs. H. Henke, Mrs. Earl Reish, Sr., Mrs. Stewart Loebe, Mrs. Elmer Newton and Mrs. John Cooper attended the Spring meeting of Southern District Friday, May 26 at the Thoburn Methodist church, Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Ebeling are the proud parents of a daughter born May 27 at Silver Cross hospital. The baby has been named Sarah Lyn. Mother and daughter are doing fine. Their son Paul has contracted the measles, but he should worry, at least he had the chance to attend the school picnic before they popped out on him.

Chas. "Moon" Mullin was home for a week and has returned to Camp Campbell, Ky.

Cpl. Gordon C. Doctor is home on a 15 day furlough. He was stationed at Las Vegas, Nevada and has graduated as a gunner and received his wings.

Wm. Carrier, A-s has returned to Great Lakes after enjoying a 12 day furlough home with his wife and children.

Wm. Schakow has a change of address. Pvt. Wm. G. Schakow, 36750553, 132nd Gen. Hospital, APO 5181, care postmaster San Francisco, Cal.

A correction in Eugene Yunker's address: S 2-c Eugene Yunker is stationed at Port Hueneme, Cal. and not at Orlando, Fla. as stated last week.

SERVICEMEN'S NEWS

A correction to someone's correction in last week's edition. I would like to state that for the last two Christmas Holidays, James T. Pomeroy has been out of this country. Due to printing error, Ft. Bliss, Tex. was at the end of his letter, where it should have started Marvin Schmaedeke's letter.

Lilah (Mrs. H.) Kruspe, chair, Port Hueneme, Cal.

May 19, 1944

I received your package and wish to thank you and the American Legion Aux. for the nice package. I surely did enjoy it. It is very nice out here in California. I was on the NBC network program "Barn Door Canteen". The people out here sure do like to do favors for the boys. It makes me feel at home when I go on liberty. I'll have to close now, the boys want to put the lights out it is 9:30.

Eugene J. Yunker, S 2-c Harlingen, Texas

Dear Mrs. Kruspe: I noticed in the last issue of the Orland Park Herald that you said that anyone that had a change in address should notify you. My new address is the same as on the envelope.

I haven't started school yet but I will next week. It seems like every place I go seems to have more attractions than the last. Our Commanding Officer goes out of his way to keep us happy. He provides with wonderful libraries, club and day rooms, to mention just a few. I like it down here in Texas.

cept like most of the fellows its too far from home. I want to try to thank you for sending the paper. Its really a swell link with home and it keeps me posted on all of the advents at home.

Yours truly,
Bill Maddox
Ft. Geo. G. Meade, Md.

May 22, 1944

Dear Mrs. Kruspe: Just a few lines to let you know I have moved. There really is no use of asking you to forward the Orland paper here as I may be here just a short time. I have a card made up which will give you my APO when I am shipped. Thought I'd save you the trouble and postage. Don't forget to mail it when you get my new APO.

Sincerely,
H. Helenhouse

Cpl. Chas. E. Mullin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Mullin was recently graduated from the Gunnersy Dept. of the Armored School located at Ft. Knox, Ky. Their training was planned to keep guns in action in combat, and putting them back into action when parts wear out or are disabled by enemy fire.

Cpl. Foster G. Myrick of Orland Park is a machinist in the Metal Manufacturing Section of the busy aircraft repair and modification depot, somewhere in England.

Machine shop men are prepared, at a moment's notice, to turn out anything from a tiny stud bolt to the largest piece of steel needed to place a disabled craft back "on the line".

Cpl. Myrick has been serving overseas since last October.

The Red Cross Sewing group will meet for an all day session, Friday, June 9 at the home of Mrs. Harry Pihl, on 108 Ave. Bring your own sandwiches and the hostess will serve coffee at noon. Anyone in the community who can sew and is interested in Red Cross work should plan to attend and be at Mrs. Pihl's home by 10:30 am.

The next meeting of the Orland Home Bureau Unit will be held on Tuesday evening, June 6 at 8 pm at the home of Mrs. Lawrence Doctor on 159th St. between Wolf Rd. and 108 Ave. The major lesson will be The Foot, its care and abuse. The minor lesson will be the last lesson on Public Speaking. The score between the Glamour Girls and the Pin Up Girls is a tie. This will be the last meeting in the contest, so bring your new members.

—Gertrude Pihl, Reporter
The Legion Aux. Unit 526 will hold its regular meeting Friday, June 9 at 8 pm in the Legion Hall. Election of officers will take place at this meeting. All members are urged to attend.

Mrs. Geo. Yunker and Mrs. Geo. Estand have been appointed as board members to serve on the nominating committee with Mrs. S. S. Knox, Mrs. Harry Hallinan and Mrs. Geo. Cox.

Laurel Camp 196 RNA will sponsor a Bake Sale Saturday, June 3 at Loebe's Store Sale will start at 3 pm and continue to 5 pm. All members are requested to have their bake goods at the store before 3 pm. The committee in charge: Mrs. Olive Logge, chairman, Mrs.

Emma Jacobson and Mrs. Anna Yunker.

At the regular meeting of the R. A. held last Friday, May 26 at the home of Mrs. Katherine Cox, memorial services were held for the deceased members. Before Memorial Day, RNA flags were placed on the graves of the departed members. Mrs. Wm. Jacobson was in charge of the flags. In the attendance contest, the WACc are in the lead over the WAVEs. So members you know what to do.

Lee Roy Yates has been promoted to Sgt. He is stationed at Sioux City, Iowa.

Max Rasmussen recently reported as missing in action has been located and is a prisoner of Germany.

WAVES IN SUMMER SEERSUCKER

Cool and happy are Ensign Eloise English of Washington, D. C., left, and Virginia Laws, Yeoman, third class, of Denver, Colorado, in their new summer uniforms. The uniforms are gray and white pin-striped seersucker, consisting of jacket and one-piece shirt-waist dress having a round collar, set-in belt at the waist, and a single kick-pleat in front. They are identical for officers and enlisted women, except for the hats and the insignia of rank or rating. Ties, shoes, purse and gloves are black. The cost of these summer uniforms is covered by part of the Navy clothing allowance—$200 for enlisted WAVES, $250 for officers. Women may apply for the WAVES at Navy Recruiting Stations or Offices of Naval Officer Procurement.

VFW AUXILIARY NEWS

The Ladies Auxiliary are happy, that owing to the membership drive, they are now in a position to do more hospital work. In the past, it has largely been done in contributions. We are now planning to put on a party each month for the Service Men. We will alternate between serving dinners and putting on card parties for them. Our Auxiliary has been assigned to the Kankakee hospital.

Each month five members will be appointed to work on one committee with the hospital chairman, Mrs. Dorothy Nordstrom.

June 6, is the date set for group one to serve a dinner at the hospital. For Mother's Day, the Auxiliary sent cigarettes to the boys in the hospital. Scrap books were sent to the boys in the Hawaii hospital.

This past week, 50 decks of playing cards, and two boxes of books, magazines and games were sent to the Department of Illinois Hospital chairman to distribute. This work will continue, so any time you have anything the boys could find pleasure in, bring it to the meeting. Jig Saw puzzles are always well-come.

OPA Rent Control

Under a new amendment to OPA's Rent Control Regulations operators of such businesses who previously were compelled to rent previously were compelled to rent less than 25 percent of their total rooms to weekly or monthly guests now may be relieved of that requirement when such quarters become vacant, it was announced by John J. Van Deraa, Manager of the Harvey office of Price Administration. However, before being relieved of the requirement, operators must petition and obtain approval of the Area Rent Office.

The new regulations do not permit rooming houses and hotel proprietors to change present terms of occupancy or to evict weekly or monthly guests, Van Deraa said.

On approval of the operator's petition under the new regulations, new conditions are imposed. Only where vacancies occur may proprietors change the tenancy from a permanent to a transient rate. If the tenant remains in occupancy for a period of more than 10 days, he shall be entitled to the weekly rate immediately. If he remains in occupancy for a period of more than 30 days, the tenant shall be entitled to a monthly rate automatically.

HE'S OFF ON HIS FIFTY-FIFTH MISSION

There he goes again—out to pour more destruction on the Axis—once more to face the death of enemy fighters and flak!

He won't hesitate to go out on his fifty-sixth or his hundred and fifty-sixth mission. He knows he might not come back, but he keeps on going—giving more and more until the Hitler and

Tojo crews are ready to "call it quits."

This is only your fifth mission—and a mission which is mighty easy in comparison with the ones he makes every week.

Stay in the fight by welcoming the Victory Volunteers—at least double your Bond purchases and then keep on. Your buying means "bombs away" for the Axis!

Back the Attack!—BUY MORE THAN BEFORE

IN SWEDEN and Norway only 9 per cent of the youths 18 years old or younger are reported unfit for war service. In Germany before the war the average was only 7 per cent. In the United States out of every 100,000 18-year-old army prospects, 25,000 are turned back.

This is a situation that must be corrected at the earliest possible date. The fact a major war is under way makes the correction even more necessary.

The first point is this—why should 25 per cent of our youth be unfit at 18 years?

Here is one angle—we have given the better part of our training and development to the few who need it least—those better qualified to make up winning football teams, track teams, basketball teams, baseball teams, etc. In this way the great majority who need proper training most, get it least.

The mass has been too badly overlooked in the concentration on those already fit to run, jump, swim, block and tackle.

Having been with Comdr. Jack Dempsey at his coast guard post I can verify everything he says—including his statement that over 50 per cent of the recruits that come in can't play any sort of game—including the not too subtle act of chinning themselves.

"Many of them," Jack says, "can't even tell a left hand from a right when they first get in. The whole picture is far worse than most people know."

Starting Too Late

This physical development and physical improvement must begin at earlier school ages.

There is no reason why kids of ten should not be taught at least to swim, run and jump. Between the ages of 12 and 16, they should not only be taught games, but in addition should be given better instruction and closer inspection.

One or two leading teams are never enough. There should be as many teams as space will allow.

Nurmi once told me that as a kid he had to jog to school, 12 miles away, and then walk or jog back.

"On a general average," he said, "I covered around 25 miles a day on foot. So did many other kids in our neighborhood." Strong, active legs are among the essentials and legs don't happen to thrive on lack of use.

West Point and Annapolis have ideal athletic programs for everyone. Many colleges have good programs. But as a rule these programs start about four years late.

Ty Cobb was a good ballplayer at the age of 12 and his legs carried him through 24 years of rugged big-league competition.

Bobby Jones was playing golf at the age of eight and his legs were a strong factor through his 12 major championships later on.

Bob Feller was building up stout legs and a strong right arm when he was ten.

Millions of kids get no such chance. But they should be given a far better chance than they have known in past years—or know today. When 100,000 march up to an army base and 25,000 must turn back, no further argument is required. But mere words are not going to help. Some vital and early action is needed today more than ever before. And if such action had been taken before, more than 2,000,000 additional fit fighters would now be in our army and navy.

College Football

College football has now come to a crisis which must be met. This crisis concerns certain rule changes, notably the present kickoff nightmare, which must be met to help give the college game a fair break with the professional side. Any advancement among such lines has been blocked so far by Bill Bingham of Harvard, chairman of the rules committee, Dana Bible of Texas and others who have become stubborn and completely out of line with the wishes of the players, the public, and 95 per cent of the coaches.

This latter group wants an early meeting that will clear up the muddy atmosphere and put college football back where it belongs. Lou Little, Columbia's able coach, and one of the smartest football men I ever knew, has been working desperately to have such a meeting.

The Main Arguments

The main arguments at hand, first of all, concern the present out-of-bounds college kickoff rule. This made a joke and a tragedy out of the game all last season.

What happens now—the big crowd waits expectantly for the kick down the field and the run back—which may go from 10 yards to a touchdown.

But what takes place? The kickoff side promptly kicks out of bounds, giving the ball to the other team on the 33 yard line.

STAFF Sgt. Joe Louis, heavyweight champion of the world, made a couple of surprising revelations recently when he named an all-opponent team for Stars and Stripes, servicemen's publication.

First surprise came when he named Max Baer as the toughest opponent he ever met. Second was his choice of Jim Braddock as possessor of the most potent right hand.

In explaining his selection of Baer as the toughest opponent, Joe said: "I pitched more strikes against Baer than I did against a half dozen ordinary opponents. Any other man would have lasted less than half a round, just as Schmeling did in our second fight."

Most ring followers figured that Schmeling had the most dangerous right, for Max flattened Joe in 12 rounds in New York in 1936. But Louis merely remarked: "If Schmeling's right carried the explosiveness Braddock's did, I never would have been able to answer the bell after the fifth round. Max landed his Sunday punches for 12 rounds before he could put me away."

That One Wallop

"Braddock hit me once in the first round, and had he been able to follow up his advantage, this little boy might never have been the champion of the world."

It was on June 22, 1937, that Louis knocked out Jim Braddock in the eighth round in Chicago for the world title.

Billy Conn was named five times in the mythical line-up. Conn, who came exceedingly close to unseating Joe at New York's Polo Grounds in 1941, figures to be the first challenger to get a crack at the championship following the war.

Louis picked Conn as the smartest of all his opponents, the fastest, the possessor of the most dangerous left and the fighter with the best offense and defense.

In Joe's book, Lee Ramey was his most courageous opponent; Arturo Godoy was the most troublesome; Bob Pastor the fastest retreater, and Johnny Paycheck his poorest opponent.

He considers the hardest punch he ever took was a right landed by Al Delaney in a 1934 bout. Joe admitted it nearly cracked his jaw. On the reverse side, Louis claims the hardest punch he ever landed was the one that knocked out Paulino Uzcudun in the fourth round in New York.

Smartest Fighter

More than one individual pointed out that Conn's smartness wasn't in evidence the night he almost removed Joe's crown. Boxing records show that Conn got ahead of Louis in that fight.

He had piled up a comfortable lead in points. Those records also show that the Irishman became cocky and tried to slug it out with the champion. And that Conn was knocked out in the thirteenth round.

But Louis wasn't thinking of Conn's intelligence or his I.Q. He was probably referring to his unquestioned ability to avoid punches and to move quickly, landing punches through the smallest openings in his opponent's defense.

Most smaller fighters are smarter (in that fashion) than their beefier contemporaries. They know more about all the angles of boxing than the big fellows.

SPORTS SHORTS

Five million Americans play softball.

Flying Ebony in 1925 was the only "field horse" to win the Kentucky Derby.

Clark Griffith once had a chance to buy Grover Cleveland Alexander for $700 but turned him down, considering him too wild.

Detroit has not finished eighth in the American league in the last 43 years and Minneapolis has not finished eighth in the American association in the same period.

Artificially Bred Stock Often Better

Plan to Restore European Herds

Postwar Europe's barnyard babies may never get to see their fathers.

Test-tube livestock breeding may, in fact, solve the problem of quickly rebuilding depleted herds and flocks in the war-devastated regions, according to a report issued this week by the American Foundation for Animal Health. This method of livestock breeding which was first developed on a broad scale in Russia, has already been used extensively in this country. To Europe it offers the advantage of avoiding the delays and transportation difficulties which would be involved in shipping breeding animals from this country to the reclaimed battle areas. Instead, male germ cells of various species of farm animals could be collected in this country, flown by fast planes to Europe, and used to fertilize cows, mares, and ewes of the devastated countries.

Experiments by American veterinarians have shown that male germ cells for breeding purposes can be kept active and potent for as long as 130 hours in transit, at a temperature of 40 degrees. For such shipment, the semen is diluted with egg yolk and mineral salts. In this form enough for breeding thousands of farm animals could be flown to Europe in a single plane.

Already Widely Used.

This practice of artificial insemination is already widely used in the United States. In many areas, groups of dairy farmers have banded together and formed cooperative organizations acquiring the use of high quality bulls and the services of trained veterinarians, the latter supervising the breeding animals and doing the inseminating. In this way, hundreds of herds in an area are able to utilize a proven sire of a type which would be beyond the financial reach of the average farmer.

Carefully kept records of various artificial breeding associations show that this "test tube" method may be actually more efficient than natural methods, producing a higher percentage of conceptions. Also, it has been shown that some of the test-tube heifers become better milk producers than their mothers.

Just how practical this application may be to postwar Europe's needs is indicated by the fact that a cow in Argentina was recently bred to a bull in Maryland, by the test-tube method.

Cleanliness around the separator is essential.

Deep Tillage Drains Off Swamps and Water Holes

"Water holes and temporary ponds on many farms can be drained by deep tillage practices, which includes the heavy application of lime on the surface or in the subsoil," advises C. M. Nissley of Rutgers U. "This makes conditions favorable for deep-rooted crops which help to open up the soil."

The practice would not be applicable to fields where the surface soil is underlaid with three or more feet of clay, however. Because of this, Nissley suggests that a hole three feet deep or deeper be dug in order to find out the character of the soil formation before remedial measures are put into practice. He also suggests that the county agricultural agent be consulted for additional advice on deep tillage practices.

Talk about different angles: Julie Haydon, the actress, is doing a book, which she illustrates as well. It's about her dog. The theme: One day in its life . . . Bigtown Vignette: On the George Washington bridge, the other Sunday afternoon, flocks of young girls in their colorful summer dresses were decorating the scene . . . Far below was a grey war-like freighter at anchor . . . The sailors on guard by the stern gun were like little toys. They were waving to the girls . . . They shouted and called back and forth but no one could hear what they were saying . . . The wind was blowing and the distance was too much . . . Then a sailor came on deck . . . He had a trumpet . . . And pointing to the distant span he played some beautiful horn music . . . He must have been a professional in civilian life . . . One of his renditions was: "Come to Me, My Melancholy Baby" . . . He looked like a little toy on the deck of the ship . . . His trumpet looked like a toy, too . . . His music came up through the air, thin and clear, like music from a toy horn . . . And down the Hudson you could see the bay and the open sea . . . Where the freighter would sail soon for the fighting . . . The trumpeter really "sent" the girls . . . There sure was a lot of youthful yearning on the breeze.

We Hadn't Heard It Before: About the fat whale and the skinny whale. The fat whale said: "My goodness, you're thin! What's wrong with you?" Replied the skinny whale: "I've been having bad luck, been in bad waters and no food." "Tell you what," said the fat whale, "why not swim to the English channel? The Allies are exploding a lot of Nazis into the air there." So the skinny whale swam and swam, and six weeks later, skinnier than ever, swam back to his fat friend.

"Well," puffed Fatso, "why didn't you do as I told you?" "I did," said the skinny whale, "but when those Nazis came down into the water—they all had marks on their chests saying they were supermen—and I just couldn't swallow that baloney!"

Hitler was never either a house-painter or a paper-hanger. (He was a very poor artist who at one time used to put his paintings in an oven to "antique" them.) . . . He had a longer life than Napoleon (52) and Alexander the Great (32), but Caesar died at 56 and Genghis Khan at 65 . . . Although Adolf's father was named Schicklgruber, der rat who became der fuhrer was never called that . . . Hitler's father was a ne'er-do-well, who died in the belief his son was a zero . . . Goebbels attended six universities and entered Heidelberg on the strength of a scholarship from a Jewish professor named Gundolf . . . When Hitler spent his early days in a Viennese flophouse, the only man who befriended and helped him was a Jew named Neumann . . . ## Quaint Cookie Corner Is Useful in Kitchen

HERE is a cookie jar that may be made at home from odds and ends of wood stenciled with gay peasant figures and quaint lettering. But that is not all. This jar or box sits on an old fashioned brightly painted corner shelf which may be cut out of thin wood and put together quickly with glue and brads.

Even if you do not have a jig saw or a coping saw to cut out the graceful curves of the shelf pieces, you may mark the design on a piece of plywood or other thin wood and have it cut at your nearest woodworking shop. As for the cookie box, it is all straight cuts.

NOTE—Mrs. Spears has prepared an actual size pattern for this corner shelf and cookie box; also a stencil pattern with complete color guide for the lettering and peasant figures; all on one large sheet which will be mailed for 15 cents which includes cost and postage. Ask for Pattern 265 and write direct to:

Kidneys Must Work Well-

For You To Feel Well

24 hours every day, 7 days every week, never stopping, the kidneys filter waste matter from the blood.

If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove surplus fluid, excess acids and other waste matter that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole system is upset when kidneys fail to function properly.

Burning, scanty or too frequent urination sometimes warns that something is wrong. You may suffer nagging backache, headaches, dizziness, rheumatic pains, getting up at night, swelling.

Why not try Doan's Pills? You will be using a medicine recommended the country over. Doan's stimulates the function of the kidneys and help them to flush out poisonous waste from the blood. They contain no harmful drugs. Get Doan's today. Use with confidence. At all drug stores.
